I think it's a travesty of justice that Microsoft has been allowed to get away with it. Basically, by bundling IE with Windows, it destroyed Netscape, and it is still trying to do that in surreptitious ways. (Check out its export facility, which does not sort the output, so Netscape importers get a mess, but IE importers get a sorted list).

Companies that I have worked for have signed up for agreements to receive MS software, but have ended up having to buy PC's with the software already bundled as the OEM's have to install it. How does a company get away with this?

Bill Gates must be laughing his head off at the way he has the US government wrapped around his little finger. It's like he has received a slap on the wrist for multiple homicides because he pays the judge's salary.
